Her Great Desire.
"I disapprove of the new fashions because they encourage vanity," says a woman reformer. "I know a little girl whose mother has gone in for all the new fashions. This little girl's teacher said to her reproachfully one day:
"But, my dear, don't you want to grow up so that everybody will look up to you?"
"No, ma'am," said the youngster decidedly. "I want to grow up so that everybody will look round at me!"

The Medal of Honor.

A military decoration more difficult to earn, or at least far more sparingly awarded than the emblem of the Legion of Honor, the Victoria cross or the Iron cross, is the medal of honor, which is the proud possession of a few American soldiers. The highest decorations that European governments bestow for exceptional valor may all be won in the ordinary course of duty, but the wearer of our medal of honor must have distinguished himself conspicuously "for gallantry and intrepidity above his comrades—service that involved extreme jeopardy of life or the performance of extraordinarily hazardous duty."—Exchange.

ARMY CHIEF OFF TO SEE FUNSTON

Washington, April 19.—General Hugh Scott, chief of staff of the army, is leaving tonight to spend several days with General Funston and canvass the Mexican situation.

Secretary of War Baker requested that Scott make the trip for the purpose of getting as accurate information as may be possible for the use of the war department. General Funston remains in full charge of the American expedition, and retains the full confidence of the war department, Baker said. It is believed that Scott's journey arises from disquieting reports that General Funston forwarded bearing on the situation of General Pershing's men around Parral.
